

Dr. Ann W. Davis is a Clinical Associate Professor in the Educational Leadership and Cultural Foundations Department at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro and Senior Leadership Consultant for The Center of Excellence for Research, Teaching and Learning at Wake Forest University.

Dr. Davis has served as a teacher, assistant principal, principal, state transformation high school portfolio manager and associate superintendent. She was recognized (2006) by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP) as recipient of the North Carolina's High School Principal of the Year award. Dr. Davis has over 30 years of service in public schools.

She is a state level leader in one-to-one 24/7 mobile computing for PK-12 school districts and a national leader in next generation personalized learning and learning spaces. She has vast experience in leadership development, data analysis, strategic planning, classroom walkthrough design & feedback, coaching, change management, process analysis and alignment, curriculum development, grant writing, conflict negotiation and political climate navigation.

Dr. Davis recently completed a spring 2017 study on 21st Century Learning International in Hong Kong, China. She completed a study of education excellence as a United States Delegate to Helsinki, Finland with the National Association of Secondary School Principals in the fall of 2014. She also represented the United States in the fall of 2012 with the International Society for Technology in Education in a study tour of technology in education in Perth, Melbourne and Sydney Australia. She is author of the 1:1 implementation framework adapted by the USDOE Epic-Ed.

Dr. Davis' research interests are 21st Century Teaching and Learning, 1:1 Ubiquitous Mobile Learning Ecology, Personalized Learning, High School Reform – Equity Education, Focused Learning Walks, Executive Coaching, District Leadership and Power and Politics in Schools.